Leonardo Rojas Lundgren - Biography

Leonardo Rojas Lundgren is a Swedish-Spanish actor whose passion for performing began at an early age. From imitating characters as a young child to landing a role in the acclaimed Swedish television series Solsidan at just seven years old, Leonardo has been involved in the performing arts for most of his life. He has continued to appear in multiple seasons of the series, alongside other productions, while constantly seeking to expand his range and versatility as an actor.

With strong ties to his Spanish heritage, Leonardo is multilingual and has developed his language skills in Swedish, Spanish and English, while also studying French.

Beyond acting, Leonardo has a deep passion for music, movement and creative expression. His early experience in dance helped him develop a strong sense of rhythm, which later became valuable in his pursuits of guitar playing and Brazilian Jiu-Jitsu.

Naturally curious and driven by a love of learning, Leonardo enjoys exploring disciplines that require dedication, creativity and continuous development. Whether mastering a challenging guitar solo, exploring theoretical subjects or approaching a new character, he is motivated by the process of discovery and the opportunity to push his own boundaries. For Leonardo, the journey towards mastery is just as rewarding as the achievement itself.
