Leonardo Rojas Lundgren

Leonardo Rojas Lundgren - Biography

Swedish-Spanish actor that early on got started with everything that surrounds artistry, from mimicing as an infant to a role in Solsidan at 7 years of age. I've been active with continued seasons as well as other productions ever since, with my eyes locked on expanding the potential of what I can portray and display. Multilingual, since I've always wanted to keep the bond tight to my Spanish roots, but also to master my English as well as somewhat improve my French.

I've always had a great passion for music, since I developed both a sense and affection for rythm from dance-courses in early age, that ended up being very beneficial in learning both guitar and Brazilian Jiu-Jitsu.

Essentially, I am just a nerd overall. I've always loved to find and identify hobbies that carry great depth. Not because I'm aiming to conquer everything, but because it is the path towards completion that is the beautiful part. The knowledge of me putting myself out to do my very best to reach as close as possible to the finish line, even if there isn't one, is what keeps me going. Regardless if it is a portrayal, theoretical fields, the guitar-solo to Eruption or craft beer.
