Noam Akiwumi - Biography

I have been working professionally as a model since the age of two and by the time I was five I was also acting in commercials. Alongside regular schooling, I have also from the age of six been attending the performing arts school Stockholm School of Arts (Kulturskolan Stockholm), where I have actively participated in drama and musical productions there.
My passion for performing knows no bounds, and I wholeheartedly invest my energy in every role I take on. It has always been my dream to one day grace the stage in my all-time favorite musical, Hamilton, and to perform in London’s renowned West End. Additionally, I have a deep appreciation for film and spend time analyzing movies with my father, who is a film director with both my parents consistently encouraging me to express myself, nurturing within me a strong sense of independence and adventure.
